

Voices 4 Mother Earth, Millemont, France 6–11 December 2015

Wisdom keepers call for unified action for the next seven generations

Millemont - The Voices 4 Mother Earth gathering led by wisdom keepers from around the world - Indigenous elders, scientists, farmers, youth and more - call for unified action to ensure that the next seven generations have a world in which they can live.

Young wisdom keepers Taimiroa Pajimola (center) and Lindar Winnie Otieno (right) , reading the Vision Statement of the Voices 4 Mother Earth gathering to the press on the Seine River in front of the Notre Dame on Sunday the Sixth of December.

We stand here as Voices 4 Mother Earth, who have gathered from all directions in Millemont near Paris, in a parallel event to the COP21.¹

In our gathering we have experienced and acknowledged that WE ARE ALL ONE.

We are all indigenous to this planet, Mother Earth is sacred; she gives us everything. All we have to do is remember, and unify in action.

We have recommitted our love for Mother Earth to re-establish balance for all life. These are the sparks of motivation that guide us.

In order to create balance, we must first create it within and between ourselves.

We are clear that to heal our relationship to our Mother Earth is to heal our relationship to the Feminine.

By creating global balance, the children, the poor, the animals, and all of nature will thrive.

We weave our shared knowledge into practice, through our communities and lives, and through technology and open source environments.

We, the youth, are the seventh generation after the start of the Industrial Age. In consideration of the next seven generations, we are taking unified action now to assure that they have a world they can live in.

Today is the point from which we have the power to act. We are taking the lead. Please give us a hand.

By joining intentions from all directions, it is already done.

Four hands of wisdom keepers from all directions bringing together earth, seeds, water and humanity -

In our gathering we have experienced and acknowledged that WE ARE ALL ONE.

We are all indigenous to this planet, Mother Earth is sacred; she gives us everything. All we have to do is remember, and unify in action.

We have recommitted our love for Mother Earth to re-establish balance for all life. These are the sparks of motivation that guide us.

In order to create balance, we must first create it within and between ourselves.

We are clear that to heal our relationship to our Mother Earth is to heal our relationship to the Feminine.

By creating global balance, the children, the poor, the animals, and all of nature will thrive.

We weave our shared knowledge into practice, through our communities and lives, and through technology and open source environments.

We, the youth, are the seventh generation after the start of the Industrial Age. In consideration of the next seven generations, we are taking unified action now to assure that they have a world they can live in.

Today is the point from which we have the power to act. We are taking the lead. Please give us a hand.

By joining intentions from all directions, it is already done.

Four hands of wisdom keepers from all directions bringing together earth, seeds, water and humanity - Image created by Theun Karelse and Maria Blaisse